

JOHN MAHAMA 2020

OFFICE OF
PROF. NAANA JANE OPOKU-AGYEMANG

PRESS RELEASE

05/10/2020

For Immediate Release

PROFESSOR OPOKU-AGYEMANG'S MESSAGE FOR WORLD TEACHER'S DAY

Good teachers are the backbone of our education system. Ghana's educational system continues to survive on the sacrifices that our teachers make imparting knowledge to the Ghanaian population with the limited resources available to them.

The COVID-19 pandemic underscores the urgent need to continuously invest in the training and retention of teachers to meet the peculiar challenges of our time. While this means creating conducive working conditions for our teachers, it also means improving capacity and skills for 21st century education across the nation, including remote teaching and IT literacy. This is the work of the next 4 years. As an educationist, I pledge to be an ally on this journey.

As we mark World Teachers Day, I salute the thousands of exceptional teachers across Ghana who embrace each day with dedication and determination to carve a path to progress for their students and for this nation.

Ghana is richer because of you, Ghana has a brighter future because of you.

Happy World Teachers' Day

We say ayekoo!

Media Contact

Mawuena Trebarh

Spokesperson and Head of Communications

Office of the Vice-Presidential Candidate 2020

National Democratic Congress

Phone : 0244303990

Email: Press@naanajane.com

About Professor Naana Jane Opoku-Agyemang

The Vice-Presidential candidate of the NDC is Professor Naana Jane Opoku-Agyemang, who was Vice Chancellor of the University of Cape Coast and the first female Vice-Chancellor of a University in Ghana. She has also served as a Minister of Education, among her numerous internationally acknowledged credentials.